CHESA Fellowship Applications Open

The CHESA Fellowship is for individuals who have completed or are enrolled in a health professional training program and are committed to developing a career focused on advancing health equity in perioperative care. CHESA Fellowships are 1-2 years and uniquely tailored to each Fellow to support their career goals. Some Fellowships may be undertaken on campus in San Francisco or remotely. Once selected, each CHESA Fellow embarks on a tailored timeline of investments and mentorship over their 1-2 year fellowship.

UC Big Ideas Fall Application Open

Big Ideas is an early-stage, innovation competition that provides funding (up to $20,000), resources, networks, and validation to interdisciplinary teams of graduate and undergraduate students across the University of California campuses who have creative solutions to pressing social challenges.

Eligible projects are student led, in an early stage and are designed to have a clear social impact.

Application Deadline: November 18, 2021, 1:00 p.m. PT

Questions? Contact zehra@uchastings.edu

Social Impact Tracks

Big Ideas encourages students to propose innovative solutions across a broad range of social impact tracks. Based on the scope of the project, teams will indicate a primary track that best fits their project.

Workforce Development

This category challenges students to develop solutions to assist those who will be adversely affected and displaced by advancements in technology, automation, and artificial intelligence. To this end, students will be required to think about the issue critically and understand the exact nature of jobs that will be displaced. The matter at hand is to help these workers regain not only their lost income but also their purpose and direction in life. Learn
